Oct., 20th	78	12mo ... 1st ...		78	Printed	0 4 0	Anukul Chandra Chatterji, Murshidabad, Duhiau.	A comedy in which a Brahman, the paramour of a milkmaid, wants to marry her dumb child to the daughter of a rich Brahman zemindar, and is severely beaten when the fact of the child's illegitimacy is brought to light. The Brahman is aided in this work by the members of the Raktavahini Sabha, or an association for the preservation of the purity of Aryan blood. The members of the association are young men without education, without principle, and without character, though they all profess to be patriots and reformers.	5647

HARAPRASAD SHASTRI,

Offg. Librarian of the Bengal Library and Keeper of the Catalogue of Books under Section XVIII, Act XXV of 1867.

The Calcutta Gazette.

EXTRAORDINARY.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 15, 1887.

GOVERNMENT OF BENGAL.

NOTIFICATION.

The 15th February 1887.

THE following programme of the official ceremonial at the pavilion on the Maidan on the 16th February 1887 has been approved by His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General, and is published for general information.

Their Excellencies the Viceroy and Governor-General and the Countess of Dufferin, C.I., will arrive on the ground at 5 P.M. precisely, and will be received by His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor.

His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor will present to Their Excellencies the Members of the Executive Committee for the celebration of the Jubilee.

Their Excellencies will then be conducted to their seats on the dais. The following will be the order of the procession:—

The Aides-de-Camp to His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor.

The Under-Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Political Department, and the Private Secretary to His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor.

The Aides-de-Camp to His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General.

The Private and Military Secretaries to His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General.

THEIR EXCELLENCIES THE VICEROY AND GOVERNOR-GENERAL AND THE COUNTESS OF DUFFERIN, C.I.

His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal.

The Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

The Secretaries to the Government of Bengal in the Financial, Revenue, and Public Works Departments.

The President and Members of the Executive Committee.

After His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General has been seated, the Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal will announce to His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor that the gentlemen deputed by public bodies to present addresses to His Excellency for transmission to Her Most Gracious Majesty the Queen-Empress are in attendance. His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor will then address His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General, and request His Excellency to receive the deputations, and to transmit their addresses to Her Most Gracious Majesty. On His Excellency's pleasure being signified, the Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal will introduce the deputations in succession, and will hand each address to His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor, by whom it will be delivered to His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General.

After each address has thus been delivered, the delegates who have presented it will, in the order in which their names are announced, make obeisance to His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General, and pass on to resume their places.

On the Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal announcing that all the addresses have been delivered, His Excellency the Viceroy and Governor-General will address the assembly.

On the conclusion of His Excellency's address the National Anthem will be played.

Their Excellencies will then leave the dais accompanied by the President and Members of the Executive Committee.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

COLMAN MACAULAY,

Offg. Chief Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

CALCUTTA PORT TRUST.

THE HON. MR. MACAULAY, in moving for leave to introduce a Bill further to amend the Calcutta Port Improvement Act, 1870, said: I may at once explain to the Council that the measure which I propose to introduce will be very limited in its scope. No doubt it would have been desirable to have had an Act which would have been a consolidating as well as an amending measure. The original Act of 1870, entitled an Act to appoint Commissioners for making improvements in the Port of Calcutta, has already been amended no less than five times by Bengal Acts VII of 1871, III of 1872, IV of 1880, I of 1881, and II of 1883. At the same time, with the Calcutta Municipal Bill, on which, as our colleagues are aware, a Select Committee of several of us are constantly engaged, with the Chittagong Port Trust Bill, which I had the honour to introduce at the last meeting, and with the other measures before us, I think we shall be fully occupied this session without embarking in addition upon a large measure of consolidation. The scope of this Bill will therefore be confined to the amendment of the constitution of the Calcutta Port Trust. The details will be explained hereafter at the proper time when I come to lay the Bill before the Council. Meanwhile, I may say that the object is to recognise and affirm the elective principle in the constitution of that body. It need hardly be said that such a body as the Port Commissioners cannot be really useful and effective unless they are fairly representative of the interests which are concerned in the good management of the Port; and therefore the Government has always endeavoured to secure a substantial representation of commerce and trade, and the members of the Chamber of Commerce and the Trades' Association have been freely appointed to the Board. The next step naturally was the recognition of the fact that those who possess those interests are best qualified to select persons to represent them; and on this principle you, Sir, as the head of the Government, have in practice allowed the Chamber of Commerce and the Trades' Association to nominate successors to retiring Commissioners who were representative of those bodies. I think it is desirable, however—and this has been decided by the Government—that this privilege of election should be confirmed by law to the institutions which represent commerce and trade; and without going further into details at this stage, I may venture to express a hope that the Council will also be able to see its way to giving some representation to general local interests. The details, as I have said, will be for future consideration, and with these observations, I ask you, Sir, to put to the Council the motion which stands against my name.

The motion was put and agreed to.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 8th January 1887.

* Mean for six days.
 Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical averages or means of the reading during the same period for the past years. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as a percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional stations for the period in question during the year. Stations in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least hundredth of an inch fell.

for the week ending Friday, the 31st December 1886.

The variations are negative when the mean for the week is less than the corresponding normal mean, and positive when greater.
 cloud amount represents the part of the sky covered, the whole sky being denoted by 10. Under the head "District observations of rainfall" the normal means
 The means of the district are the numerical averages of the rainfall return received in the district, i.e., from the total rainfall at the sub-division

CALCUTTA, the 4th January 1887.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 31ST OF DECEMBER 1886.

THE meteorology of the past week calls for the briefest notice. The barometer was above its average height over the province generally, and in the Bay. The winds and temperature were affected by the weather conditions in Upper India, where a cold-weather disturbance, such as frequently occurs during Christmas week, gave moderate rain in that area, and snow to the Western Himalayas. The winds were hence more or less unsteady in Bengal during the week, and the temperature during the period of disturbance in Upper India considerably above the average. When it passed away a rapid decline of temperature followed on the 30th and 31st in Bengal. This was chiefly shown in the night temperature, which fell from 8° to 12° in Behar. The air was also not so dry as usual. The westerly element in the northerly winds common at this period was replaced at many stations by a feeble easterly component.

The mean pressure of the week was '03" in excess in Orissa, '02" in South-West Bengal, '04" in East and Central Bengal, North Behar, and Chutia Nagpur. There appears to be a slight relative deficiency of pressure in Central and Southern Behar, as represented by the stations of Gya and Patna, where the mean pressure of the week was only '01" above the average.

Temperature was considerably above the average until the 30th, when a sudden decrease occurred. The mean temperature of the week is hence considerably above the average, the excess increasing from the seaboard into the interior. The mean temperature of the week was 1½° above the normal in Orissa, 2° in East Bengal and North Behar, 3° in South-West Bengal, and 4° in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur. The following table, giving data for eight representative stations, shows that the excess of temperature was, as is usual in the cold weather, most marked in the night or minimum temperature:—
